

PLAYER EXPECTATIONS

Playing for The Phantoms is both a challenge and a privilege. The club represents a new chapter of old ideals and embraces the success, the camaraderie and the geographical challenges of regional volleyball over the last 30 years. For it to be a success there can be only one level of commitment – 100%.

When you commit to a team sport, you commit more than just your own time and energy; you also take on the responsibility of your team mates, coaches, parents and supporters. Every effort you do or don't make on and off the court impacts on all those involved in the club. If YOU make a decision for yourself not to train, not to turn up to a match, not to chase a ball, you also make that decision on behalf of your club mates, many of which will have made far greater sacrifices than you to improve, to be there, to win the point!

Therefore, any decision that you make must be made with more than yourself in mind. There will be occasions when volleyball comes way down the list and a choice must be made and that is okay, but if that happens, it has to be for the right reasons, be communicated and it should take into account the commitment that everyone else who is relying on you is making at the same time.

The Basics:
